Do NOT use LinkedIn search to find jobs on LinkedIn:

Yes, you read that right.

It's because most of the time it will show you irrelevant jobs.

Instead, do this:

Let's say, you're looking for a Human Resources Manager job.

Go to google.com and type this in the search bar:

↳ "site:linkedIn.com/jobs "Human Resources" AND "Manager"
↳ Click on tools > change "Any time" to "Past week"

You'll see all the jobs posted that very few people have applied for, which otherwise are difficult to find via LinkedIn search directly.

But, if you want to be even more specific, and search for something like below:

"Human Resources Manager or HR Manager or IT Manager position from Google, Amazon, or Apple for Bangalore or Bengaluru location"

Or, something like

"Human Resources Analyst role in the IT industry that allows me to work remotely"

Create a Boolean search string like this:

↳ site:linkedIn.com/jobs ("HR" OR "Human resources" OR IT) AND ("Manager" OR "Recruiter" OR "Recruitment) AND ("Google" OR "Amazon" OR "Apple") AND ("Bangalore OR Bengaluru")

↳ site:linkedin.com/jobs ("Human Resources Analyst") AND ("HR" OR "Human Resources" OR "Personnel" OR "Talent" OR "Employee Relations" OR "Recruitment" OR "Staffing") AND ("Remote" OR "Work from home")

↳ site:linkedin.com/in OR site:linkedin.com/search ("Recruiter" OR "Talent Acquisition") AND ("Google" OR "Amazon" OR "Apple") AND ("Bangalore")

Now copy and paste any of these strings on Google search and see the results yourself.

🎁 Bonus tip: You can also find jobs on other job portals using this hack by changing the site name to any other job portals like this:

↳ site:naukri.com/jobs ("Human Resources Analyst") AND ("HR" OR "Human Resources" OR "Personnel" OR "Talent" OR "Employee Relations" OR "Recruitment" OR "Staffing") AND ("Remote" OR "Work from home")

      Hahahaha you can do the exact same search within LinkedIn without this
      "hack"
      Plus, until Google cache the opening, many people will have applied before you do. So, creating alerts on LinkedIn is still better than this.

      Doesn't work. It mostly shows the jobs which are no longer accepting applications.
